Imprisoned British Scientist Gave Help

Washington, May 25—(AP)—Senator McMahon (D-Conn) said today the FBI set its trap at least two months ago for Philadelphia Biochemist Harry Gold, who is being held on charges of aiding atomic spy Klaus Fuchs

This disclosure by McMahon, chairman of the senate-house atomic energy committee, came on the heels of information that the Federal Bureau of Investigation sifted through a list of 1,200 suspects before it finally ran Gold down

Gave Aid to Reds?

The 39-year-old Philadelphian was arrested Tuesday night and accused of receiving secret information about U S atomic developments from Fuchs and passing it on the Russians

Fuchs is the German-born atomic scientist who recently was sentenced to a 14-year prison term by a British court after his conviction on charges that he stole British and American atomic secrets for the Soviet Union.

Officials said last night that when the FBI started its hunt for the middleman in the case it had to work from a list of 1,200 suspects with whom the British scientist might have had contact

The trail led to Gold after the list was narrowed down to a group of chemists in the New York-Philadelphia area.

The trap finally was sprung officials said, after Fuchs (a) told agents in England that his contact was a biological chemist whose name he did not recall—and (b)

Doubt Trygve Lie's Belief About Peace

Truman in Guarded State to Press

Washington, May 25—(AP)—American foreign policy officials from President Truman down today evidenced a cautious and skeptical attitude toward Trygve Lie's belief that negotiations to end the cold war are possible

Truman was asked at his news conference what he thought about the UN secretary general's efforts to arrange negotiations among the United States, Britain, France, Russia and possibly other leading United Nations members

Gives Careful Reply

The chief executive answered carefully that he knows nothing about Lie's efforts and will make no statement on them until he has talked with the secrtary of state

Lie returned to New York today from Europe where he conferred with Premier Stalin and with British and French government officials. He will come to Washington in a few days to see the president and Secretary of State Acheson.

Acheson meanwhile is returning to this country from London where he wound up last week a series of diplomatic conferences aimed at strengthening the western coalition against Soviet Communism.

Lie's expressed hopefulness has not stirred any sign of optimism at the State Department or in congress

Need More Proof

The general reaction in congress was expressed in the comment of Rep Eaton (R NJ), top Republican on the house foreign affairs committee He said he hopes Lie is correct but "nothing has shown any reason to believe Russian promises"

State Department officials were deeply skeptical of Lie's estimate that successful negotiations with the Russians are possible.

Speaking privately, they said they see no reason to believe that the Soviets are any more ready now than they have been for several years to make the kind of adjustment in their policy which western authorities deem necessary to a peaceful situation in the world.

least the marriage has no legal status. He is Dr. Peter Lindstrom, Los Angeles brain surgeon, from whom Miss Bergman obtained a Mexican divorce on Feb. 10—a week after the birth of her baby.

In Hollywood a spokesman for Lindstrom said the proxy marriage will make no difference in the physician's plans to divorce Miss Bergman in the California courts.

A high Italian priest expressed the opinion today that the Mexican proxy marriage will be valid in Italy, unless challenged by Sweden.

The source, an Italian supreme court judge who asked not to be quoted by name, said if Swedish authorities contest the validity of the ceremony, on the ground the Swedish star is not free to marry, then "our authorities would have to look into it."

Otherwise, he said, the marriage will become valid upon its registration here in the bureau of vital statistics.

Legal sources here said it was highly improbable that Sweden, acting on her own initiative, would move to contest Miss Bergman's proxy marriage. Such a challenge would only raise, they said, if some interested party requested action by Sweden.

Meanwhile, friends of the couple said they will remain in Rome until Rossellini finishes work on his new film based on the life of St. Francis of Assisi. The picture, which is being filmed in the hills north of Rome, is nearing completion.

Plan Honeymoon

After that he and Ingrid expect to make a honeymoon trip to Paris and London.

Rossellini has shied from the press ever since Miss Bergman's baby—Renato Roberto Giusto Giuseppe Rossellini—was born Feb. 2. Miss Bergman also acquired an aversion for publicity during her pregnancy.

More Arrests Hinted; Fuchs 'Key' in Case

identified Gold's picture as that of the man to whom he had passed information.

Met in Santa Fe

FBI agents were reported to have produced evidence that Gold had met Fuchs in Santa Fe, N. M., in 1945. At that time Fuchs was associated with the atomic bomb project at Los Alamos, N. M., and held in high regard.

There was some speculation on Capitol Hill that the third man in the espionage triangle—the one who got the secrets Gold is charged with receiving—was a member of the Russian embassy staff here. This person, referred to in official document as "John Doe," is believed to be in the Soviet Union now.

Gold was charged with committing espionage during wartime, an offense which is punishable by death or up to 30 years in prison. After a quick arraignment in Philadelphia he was hurried off to prison in lieu of a $100,000 bond.

Expect New Arrests

Many lawmakers indicated they will be surprised if new arrests don't follow.

"It is perfectly apparent that Fuchs had colleagues and joint conspirators in this country," observed Senator Bricker (R-Ohio), a member of the atomic committee.

Rep. Price (D-Ill), said he would not be surprised to hear of more arrests. "It doesn't seem likely that Gold and Fuchs were the only ones involved," he said.

Young Witness Ruins Case, But Makes a Story

Baltimore, May 25—(AP)—Mrs. Lillian Stummers was up in police court today on a charge of harboring a biting dog and it looked bad for her until the victim started talking.

The victim was little Linda Hyson, half past two.

Perched in her mother's arms she answered questions put by Magistrate Herbert Franklin.

"How did the dog happen to bite you on the chin?"

"I put my fingers in his eyes."

Magistrate Franklin dismissed the charge against Mrs. Stummers but continued his questioning.

"Are you still angry at the dog?"

"No."

"And you won't put your fingers in his eyes again?"

"No. I'll pull his hair out."

Jobless in State Now Total 160,000

Chicago, May 25—(AP)—There are 160,000 jobless persons in Illinois but there are 2,000 farm jobs open to any with a little farm know-how.

The state Department of Labor made the estimates today. It said 95,000 of the jobless are in Chicago and vicinity.

A department spokesman said the farm jobs don't pay as well as industry jobs but the farm workers "are better off because of better living conditions, free rent, garden space and other extras."

The department placed 4,000 persons in year-round farm jobs last year.

In seasonal farm jobs, about 4,000 persons now are moving into southern Illinois strawberry picking areas near Cairo, Centralia, Herrin and Anna.

About 2,000 are working in asparagus fields near Danville, Kankakee, Peoria, DeKalb and Rochelle.

Air-Stunting Farmer Killed at Plymouth

Plymouth, Ill., May 25—(AP)—A young farmer, stunting in his small airplane, plunged to death yesterday 200 feet from where his horror-stricken wife and mother watched.

Norman J. Griswold, 35, had been flying 100 feet above the ground and buzzing a truck driven by his brother, Giles, on Norman's farm near Plymouth, Hancock county.

Suddenly the plane dived into a vegetable garden near the farm house, state police reported.

Survivors also include four young sons.

GE Workers Voting On Union Authority

Baltimore, May 25—(AP)—Thousands of employes in 57 General Electric plants voted to decide which of two electrical unions was to represent them, the new CIO group or the union the CIO expelled last year.

Some 95,000 workers are eligible in the National Relations Board election. Results will be tabulated here tonight.

The vote will determine representation for each plant. The unions are the CIO's new International Union of Electrical Workers and the United Electrical Workers.

'Nothing Worth Worrying About Anywhere In World Without Solvent U. S.'--Dirksen

By LOUIS J. KRAMP

Chicago, May 25—(AP)—Everett M. Dirksen and Senator Scott W. Lucas are disagreeing even on what is the main issue in their forthcoming campaign for the U. S. Senate.

It looks as though they may avoid a head-on clash on issues until later in the Nov. 7 election campaign—a national feature this year.

Dirksen, the Republican nominee and a former congressman, says the issue is the Truman "fair deal" program.

Lucas, Democratic majority leader in the senate, says the issue is world peace and what the Truman administration is doing about it.

What Dirksen Says

Dirksen is assailing the Truman "fair deal" plans as wasteful, socialistic, and contrary to American free enterprise ideals.

Lucas is ardently defending Truman's deficit financing and foreign aid spending plans.

He says they are preferable to a hot war, and necessary for the success of the cold war against Communism.

Dirksen replies that such spending is "throwing money down a rat hole," and no guarantee against a hot war or against the spread of communism.

What Lucas Says

Lucas comes back with a charge that Dirksen is an isolationist. He says Dirksen was one before the war, then voted for the Marshall plan, and now has switched back with condemnation of the Marshall plan.

Dirksen says Lucas is using "smoke-screen" tactics and calling names to distract the voters. Dirksen contends it is time to put Marshall plan aid on "a loan, not a gift" basis.

Lucas says this is shortsightedness. Dirksen says Lucas is more interested in Paris, France; Havana, Cuba, and Pekin, China, than in Paris, Ill., Havana, Ill., and Pekin, Ill.

Lucas is from Havana. Dirksen's home is Pekin. Both being downstaters, they have spent much time campaigning there.

Dirksen has been traveling and talking since last September, and expects to go strong until November. He is an able orator.

Lucas has been spending most of his time in Washington. In the senate, on radio transcriptions, and in weekend visits to Illinois, he has been carrying on a defensive campaign since January.

He expects to campaign personally after late August. His big job lies downstate, a Republican stronghold. President Truman is expected to make at least one visit downstate to help his floor leader.

Lucas Unworried?

Lucas says he isn't worried about Dirksen's extensive traveling and speaking. He figures Dirksen is not so well known outside the Pekin area.

Lucas points to previous Lucas campaigns and his 11 years of senate relations with Illinois voters—Republicans as well as Democrats—as counterbalancing factors.

Chicago Democratic leaders say they will roll up a big plurality for Lucas in Cook county. But Dirksen has been working hard in Chicago.

Lucas often hammers hard in favor of civil rights, rent control, and displaced persons benefits when he speaks in Chicago.

Downstate he frequently hits the peace vs. war theme. He says Marshall plan money has made jobs and prosperity for Illinois factories and farms.

"Bribes," Says Dirksen

Dirksen replies that that is trying to bribe people with their own money. And he accuses Lucas of soft-pedaling certain issues in hostile areas.

For instance, Dirksen says Lucas doesn't advocate the Brannan plan for farm subsidies downstate because Illinois farmers oppose it.

And Dirksen also claims Lucas deliberately avoids mentioning the Yalta agreement in Chicago for fear of offending voters of Polish descent. Dirksen argues that the Democrats sold out the Poles to Russia at Yalta.

Dirksen's main argument is that Lucas, Truman and the Democrats in general are leading the nation to socialism and bankruptcy.

Without a solvent United States, Dirksen contends, "there will be nothing worth worrying about anywhere in the world."

Make Breakfast Cheery Meal

A SUBSTANTIAL, CHEERFUL MEAL is what Mrs. Raymond Ellingsen of Chicago strives to give her husband every day at breakfast time.

"A breakfast that's a cheerful meal is important to your husband."

That's the tested advice to 1950 brides from a bride of 1949, Mrs. Raymond Ellingsen of 3701 North Kenneth St., Chicago, Ill.

"You have to get up in plenty of time to get a good breakfast ready," says Mrs. Ellingsen. "Then anything you can do, no matter how simple or inexpensive, to make the table itself more cheerful will help cerate a pleasant atmosphere. Set a blooming houseplant, a vine, or a bowl of fruit on the table."

She says further to 1950 brides: "Surprise your husband once in a while with a special dish—either a new fruit and cereal combination, a different beverage, or a tempting, homemade hot bread."

Mary Ellingsen is one young homemaker who has discovered, with her husband, that breakfast can be a healthful meal and still be economical. She has worked out a pattern of foods for breakfast—fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter. These give her husband the foods he needs to be at his best at his photographer's job.

Here's Raymond Ellingsen's favorite breakfast bread.

FLAKE MUFFINS

(12 muffins, 2 inches in diameter)

One cup sifted flour, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ cup sugar, 1 egg, well beaten, ½ cup milk, 4 tablespoons melted fat, 2 cups ready-to-eat cereal flakes.

To sifted flour, add baking powder, salt, sugar, and re-sift. Combine egg with milk and slightly cooled fat, and add to flour mixture. Stir only enough to dampen flour. Fold in flakes, being careful not to overmix. Fill well-greased muffin pans ⅔ full. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 20 minutes.

Here's another economical but sustaining breakfast dish the 1950 bride should know about.

CRISP FRENCH TOAST

(12 strips)

Four slices bread, 3 eggs, well beaten, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 cups corn flakes, ¼ cup fat.

Cut each slice of bread into three strips and remove crusts. Dip strips in egg mixed with salt, then in corn flakes which have been crushed into fine crumbs. Fry in fat until crisp and brown on both sides. Drain on absorbent paper. Sprinkle lightly with confectioners' sugar if desired. Serve warm.

Parents May Cause Child To Stutter

Springfield, Ill., May 25—(AP)—A speech professor says many children who stutter develop the defect from fear of criticism by their parents.

Wendell Johnson, director of the Iowa State university speech clinic, presented his theory yesterday in a talk before the Illinois State Medical Society.

Normal Reaction

What parents often diagnose as stuttering in a small child, Johnson said, is "as a rule merely the repetitions and hesitations characteristic of normal childhood speech." He added:

"The resulting parental concern and admonitions to the child to go slow, take his time, start over, stop and think, take a breath, and so forth tend to bring about tensions anxiety and blocking symptomatic of stuttering."

Invariably, stuttering appears between the ages of three and six, he said.

Johnson told the medical society's 110th annual meeting that incipient cases of stuttering in the very young can be cured if parents "modify their attitudes and policies regarding the child."

Dr. Harry M. Hedge, Evanston dermatologist, was installed today as society president as the group's three day meeting drew to a close.

After a year as president-elect, Dr. Hedge succeeded Dr. Walter Stevenson of Quincy in the top post. He is on the faculty of the Northwestern University Medical school.

Mrs. Carl E. Sibilsky of Peoria was installed as president of the society's women's auxiliary.

Truman Diplomatic Bankruptcy is Hit By Sidney Ordower

Chicago, May 25—(AP)—Sidney L. Ordower, Progressive party candidate for the U. S. senate, calls President Truman's foreign policy an "open confession of diplomatic bankruptcy" calling for "billions of dollars for war but not one breath or penny for peace."

Ordower, who is running against Democratic Senator Lucas and Republican Everett Dirksen in the Nov. 2 election, accuses the president of sacrificing domestic aims to bolster the "bi-partisan war program."

In a radio address last night, he also accused both parties of insincerity in advocating a fair employment practices law.

"Welfare, public works, farm price supports, the rights of labor and the Negro have become legislative victims of the bi-partisan war program," he said.

Wisconsin Governor Won't Seek Office Again; to Take Rest

Madison, Wis., May 25—(AP)—Gov. Oscar Rennebohm today said he would not be a candidate for re-election in the fall balloting.

Rennebahm, a Republican, said his physician had advised him he needed a complete rest of several months and that it would be inadvisable for him "to embark on a strenuous political campaign in the present condition of my health."

Rennebohm became governor in 1947 upon the death of Gov. Walter Goodland and was returned to office in 1948.

He was elected lieutenant governor in 1944, his first public office, and was re-elected to that post in 1946.

Rennebohm owns a chain of Madison drug stores.

Education Mission To Japan to Check

Tokyo, May 25—(AP)—General MacArthur today announced five members of the U. S. Education Mission to Japan have accepted his invitation to return to see how their recommendations are being carried out.

Many of its recommendations have been written into law.

U. S. Government Linked to Ammo At South Amboy?

New York, May 25—(AP)—A Coast Guard board of inquiry has refused to admit testimony about a possible link of the United States government with the ammunition shipment that exploded in South Amboy, N. J., last Friday, killing 33 and injuring hundreds.

Representatives of two insurance companies for the James Healing Lighterage company said through counsel yesterday "if the United States government had an interest in the shipment, we think that fact should be disclosed."

Commander Leonard T. Jones senior board officer, ruled the question not allied to the probe. He said the Coast Guard was interested only in determining whether any negligence had been involved and what precautions might be taken to prevent a similar disaster.

The Healing company was in charge of stevedoring the ammunition, and owned the four barges that disappeared in the blast.

Commerce Post Now One of the Most Important

Washington, May 25—(AP)—President Truman's new shakeup of the government is carrying the Department of Commerce to the highest peak of prestige and power it has enjoyed in its 47 year history.

Secretary Charles Sawyer yesterday became supervising boss of the nation's maritime affairs and, if congress assents to another reorganization plan now pending, will take charge in July of the multi-million dollar lending operations of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

When and if that happens, the dapper, graying lawyer from Cincinnati—who walked into a sprawling $300,000,000-a-year collection of bureaus two years ago this month—will be presiding over a $2,000,000,000 agency with vast responsibilities to see that industry and government get along.

Waitress Charges Youths With Rape

Chicago, May 25—(AP)—Two 20 year old Elgin, Ill., youths, accused by a Barrington waitress, yesterday were held to the grand jury on rape charges.

They are Raymond Thompson and John Smith, Elgin.

The waitress, Mrs. Wesley Eklund, 20, testified in a justice of the peace hearing that Thompson and Smith raped her March 20 after offering to drive her home from a Barrington tavern.

A third man, Frank Ciacco, 21, Elgin, who drove the car, was freed of a charge of accessory to rape.

Justice Thomas Mathiesen set Thompson's and Smith's bonds at $3,000 each.

Son Killed; Mother Collapses and Dies

Kewanee, Ill., May 25—(AP)—A mother and son died within a few hours of each other yesterday.

John Passarella, 48, of Berkley, a Chicago suburb was brought to St. Francis hospital Tuesday after he was crushed when a 10-foot deep sewer trench caved in.

His mother, Maria, 76, of Melrose Park, Ill., collapsed and died after visiting her son.

A few hours later, Pasarella died of head and chest injuries.

'Start Slugging' Against Government Control, Urge

New York, May 25—(AP)—A steel executive urged fellow industry leaders today to "start slugging" in a battle against "the creeping strangulation of government interference and control."

Addressing the 58th general meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute, Chairman Hiland G. Batcheller of the Allegheny Ludlum Steel corporation declared:

"Old line, conservative tactics—the gentlemanly, pacifist attitude—will not bring any greater success in the future than they have in the past."

"There is an information job to be done among our workers, suppliers, customers and neighbors and we are the ones who must do it," he continued.

The industry has been attacked, he said, for failure to build more capacity, for its profits, on the location of its plants. The industry executive, he continued, "is hauled back and forth on his wage policies, its prestige battered, its motives assailed.

"What makes this attack all the more unreasonable," he asserted "is that the steel industry has turned in a decade of phenomenal production and expansion. We will produce far more steel this year than all the remainder of the world put together."

Do Chimpanzees Have Tails? Publishers Learn from Child

Peoria, Ill., May 25—(AP)—It took a third grade pupil in Peoria who had visited a St. Louis zoo to set a St. Louis publishing house straight on the question. Do chimpanzees have tails?

They don't. But the third grade speller used at Franklin school in Peoria has a picture of a chimp with a tail.

Eight-year-old Tom Morgan spotted the boner. He told the teacher, and showed her an encyclopdia article to prove it.

"Besides," he said, "I saw chimpanzees in the St. Louis zoo last summer. That's how I knew the picture is wrong."

The teacher helped Tom write a letter to the publisher protesting such monkey business.

Tom has just received a reply from the Webster Publishing company of St. Louis, saying "the joke's on us." The letter added:

"It takes a person from Peoria to come to the St. Louis zoo to find out for us that chimpanzees don't have tails.

"Of course, we know that they do not, but we were careless in looking at the artist's drawing. We are doing something about it."

Four-Year-Old Bull Brings $9,000 Price

Antioch, Ill., May 25—(AP)—A Canadian stockman paid $9,000 for a purebred Holstein four-year-old bull at an auction today.

George McLaughlin of Elmcroft farm, Oshawa, Ont., bought the bull, Ravenglenn Hartog Triune, sire of many high priced cattle, at a sale of 325 Holsteins owned by E. H. Ravenscroft, retired businessman.

L. H. Armour, of the meat packing family, bought a cow, Ravenglen Senorita Triune, for $6,000.

The sale, one of the largest in years in this northern Illinois dairying area, attracted 1,000 stockmen and spectators from all parts of the nation.

Alton Lover's Leap Blasted for Highway

Alton, Ill., May 25—(AP)—The historic landmark of "Lover's Leap," a rock on a bluff overlooking the Mississippi river west of here, was blasted away today to make way for the McAdams Memorial highway.

Existence of the rock was recorded by Fathers Jacques Marquette and Louis Joliet when they explored the river in 1673.

Two charges of explosive were used to blast the rock and part of the bluff beneath it.

Draper - Adler Damage Suit Nearing End

Hartford Conn., May 25—(AP)—MacDonald Dewitt, attorney for Mrs. Hester R. McCullough, today began final argument for his client who is being sued for libel by harmonica player Larry Adler and dancer Paul Draper.

The entertainers seek $200,000 damages from the 32-year-old Greenwich, Conn., housewife, charging she falsely labeled them pro-Communist in sympathy.

Dewitt told a federal court jury that Mrs. McCullough had two good defenses under Connecticut law: "that she made these publications without malice in fact; that it was true."

Thew Wright Jr., attorney for the entertainers said in his summation that it was "nonsensical before you call people names and lead other people to believe you're calling them names, not to go to them and talk with them."

He said "you can't find out what Draper and Adler believe in without asking Draper and Adler."

Federal Judge J. Joseph Smith has announced he would charge the jury of eight women and four men tomorrow.

Draper, a dancer and Adler, a harmonica player, claim Mrs. McCullough damaged them by branding them falsely as being "pro-Communist in sympathy" and accusing them of openly supporting nine or more Communist fronts.

The suit stems from a published letter in which Mrs. McCullough protested their appearance at a concert sponsored by the Greenwich, Conn., Community Concert association in January, 1949.

Desirable Location!

Now is a good time to purchase a residential lot in the most desirable section of Dixon, the Assembly Park, a very restricted neighborhood. There will never be any stores or any business houses whatsoever in the park.

These are the only available, desirable river front lots, commanding a fine view of Rock River.

This area will contain the beautiful and modern homes of Dixon. A neighborhood means more to a family than anything else.

Owners of lots are well known professional and business men who expect to build beautiful homes as soon as building conditions permit. May we shown you these fine lots. There are many beautiful, large shade trees which add greatly to the value of the property.

John Service To Be Probed; Says He's OK

Washington, May 25—(AP)—The State Department will start tomorrow a new and secrecy-shrouded probe into the loyalty of career diplomat John S. Service, named by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) as a pro-Communist. Service insists he is loyal.

The hearing before a three-man panel from the department's Loyalty and Security Board will be held behind closed doors. Even the identities of the panel members were withheld.

Service, who was recalled to this country, and a score of his witnesses will testify in what his attorney calls an effort to clear Service's record "once and for all."

The veteran diplomat, a specialist in Far Eastern affairs, has been investigated and cleared a number of times since he was accused and exonerated in the 1945 Amerasia case. That case involved charges that stolen State Department documents were turned to the magazine Amerasia.

The new inquiry was ordered in March at the behest of the Civil Service Loyalty Review Board soon after Senator McCarthy loosed his charges that the State Department is a haven for Communists.

Bloomington Walks As Drivers Strike

Bloomington, Ill., May 25—(AP)—A bus drivers strike began today in Bloomington and Normal, leaving the 40,000 residents of the twin cities without public transportation.

The drivers and bus garage men struck for higher wages. They are members of the AFL Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America.

The employer is the Bloomington Normal City Lines an affiliate of National City Lines, Inc. Chicago.

Taxicab business increased after the buses failed to appear on streets early today. The drivers walked out after ending runs at midnight.

The drivers ask a five cents hourly increase. Their present pay is $1.07. The garage men who now get $1.18, seek a seven cent boost.

Negotiations conducted by federal mediator Francis Sheridan of Peoria broke off late last night. The previous contract expired some time ago.

Scallops may be had fresh or frozen. Bay scallops come from shallow waters are small in size and delicately flavored. Deep-sea scallops are larger and not as delicately flavored some cooks like to cut these larger scallops in four before broiling.

Arabs, Israel To Get Arms From Powers

Washington May 25—(AP)—The United States, Britain and France have agreed to supply arms to the countries of the middle east.

Under the agreement, announced today, arms and war materials may be sent to the arab nations and Israel but only under assurances that "the buyer-state does not intend to undertake any act of aggression against another state."

The agreement was reached during the recent three-power meeting in London It marks an end to long-standing differences among these nations over the question of furnishing weapons to military forces recently engaged in bitter fighting over the partition of Palestine

Although there was no reference in the announcement of the strategic importance of the middle east in the East-West cold war, officials here were of the opinion the big three foreign ministers had this strongly in mind

Their joint statement said the three governments recognized that the Arab states and Israel "need to maintain a certain level of armed forces for the purpose of insuring their internal security, their self defense and to permit them to play their due part in the defense of the whole area."

Requests by middle eastern countries for arms "will be appraised in the light of these principles, the statement added.

The announcement said that middle eastern countries now receiving arms from the three powers already have given assurance the weapons would not be used for acts of aggression Similar assurances will be requested of other states in the area before future arms shipments are authorized, it said

This would indicate that Egypt and Hashemite Jordan, two of the Arab countries which fought against Israel over Palestine partition have pledged themselves to peace They have been receiving arms aid from Britain.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Why "Moose" Changed His Mind

Last week, parents were calling Moose Jackson on the phone—and kids were hooting at him in the streets. All because Moose fenced in his field near the depot, where the kids like to play ball.

Moose got sore the way folks acted—refused to budge. Then Doc Sherman, who likes to play center field himself sometimes, decided to "use a little psychology."

Over a friendly glass of beer at Andy's Garden Tavern, Doc says, "Sorry this came up, Moose. We were thinking of asking you to umpire—what with your professional experience and all." (Moose used to play a little semi pro ball.)

That did it! Next day Moose put up a stile over his fence In return, the kids promised not to cause any damage. From where I sit, when you try to understand the other fellow's point of view—like his personal preference for beer or coffee—and then take into consideration the will of the majority, why, things seem to go better all around.

By FRIDAY

Sparky Campbell entertained their men's and women's Studebaker Sales teams and their husbands and wives, at a bowling party and dinner last night, with 20 keglers being on hand. The festivities started at the Recreation where the men outcounted the gals, only to have the fair sex out-figure them. The group then descended on the Landmark where Lyle Myers had a pheasant dinner ready for action. Besides Sparky and Wayne those present were Gertie Campbell, Evelyn Williams, Gordon and Etha Dempsey, Rae and Addie Arnould, Naomi Howard, Ken and Pearl Detweiler, Al and Eleanor Nelson, Hoover and Mary Kelley, Fred and Mineite Meinke and Friday Shultz. Lyle Myers and Floyd Smith, Sr., were guest stars in a demonstration of extemporaneous pheasant eating. The party was one of the most enjoyable kegling get togethers of the season.

* * *

The first Dixon keglers to invade the ABC this season, rolled only a 2449 total, with Ed Worley high for the team with 561. Al Wolfe and Ed Worley, paired up in the doubles may possibly finish in the prize list with Ed having 600 and Al 530 for an 1130. Hugh Cross will probably end in the money in the singles with 586 and Ed Worley was high in the all events with 1714. For the 11 ABC tourneys Ed has rolled in he holds an average of 190.

* * *

Milly Weidman, probably disgusted watching Clell try to knock off the high prize in Ken's ragtime doubles and deciding the baby needed a new pair of shoes, dragged her better half down to the Recreation last night and showed him how easy it was. Milly rolled 594 scratch, with Clell managing to gather 591, which, with their handicap gave them a 1302 total, raising the ante just 30 pins, with only the rest of the week to go. So far Ken has 309 entries and at present 50 places will be in the prize list. If the entries go up to 350, 57 places will be in the dough. The tourney will close Sunday night

* * *

The two girls teams that will invade St. Paul next weekend for a shot at the Women's International Bowling Congress, had a match at the Recreation with the Lincoln Lanes girls coming out 294 pins ahead, 2506 to 2212. Wanita Andreas was high for Lincoln Lanes with 546 and Pearl Detweiler led the Recreation with 517. Jane Fischer had the only other "500" count with 524

* * *

Three of the Mixed league sets moved up from Sunday night were Dixon Hatchery taking two from the Recreation with the alley team's one game giving them first; O. D. L., taking two from seven Up to cinch second and Sad Sacks winning three from Sportsman's Tap, to take third place.

* * *

It's odd how much more interest there is in the girls who are rolling in St. Paul this week end in the Women's National tourney, than there is in our men's ABC entries. Last night we were approached by a half dozen fellows who suggested they raise a fund to send us to St. Paul to report on our local gals. We tried to explain to them that if they rolled any top scores we'd get it over the wire, but the fellows insisted they'd be better satisfied if we were on hand to report on their activities, but we're still undecided

Wakefield May Go to Court in Yankee Fight

Detroit, May 25 - (AP)—Dick Wakefield says he may go to court to collect the $1,900 he contends the New York Yankees owe him for the time he was sitting out a suspension.

"I'm going to get it even if it means legal action," the outfielder said yesterday.

George Weiss, general manager of the Yankees, refuses to discuss any negotiations regarding the former Detroit bonus baby who is now drawing $100 a day for doing nothing.

Dick Wakefield

The Yankees announced recently Wakefield would be disposed of and would never wear a Yankee uniform.

Wakefield was traded to the Chicago White Sox for Johnny Ostrowski and some cash He refused to report, however, unless the White Sox raised his salary from $17,100 paid by the Yankees to the $22,500 he drew with the Tigers last year.

The White Sox said "No," and, after a squabble between the two clubs Commissioner A. B. Chandler voided the deal.

Then the Yankees suspended Wakefield for failing to carry out orders, effective April 29. They reinstated him last Wednesday but wouldn't make up any back pay

Fordham Has Two-Hitter in Night's Opener

The tightest game of the yet-young season was played at the Reynolds field in the City league title race last night. United Cigar edged Raynors 2-1 in a contest that took less than an hour to complete.

* * *

Lindquist found the range and shelled Ashton for eight hits and 11 runs in the second game. The Ashton nine collected three hits off Lindquist's Poore.

* * *

Fordham tossed two-hit ball for the winning United Cigar team He struck out six men and allowed only one extra base hit; a double by McCoy in the fourth inning.

Shaulis hit a home run for United good for two runs. The four-base blow came in the first inning with Lair on base

Lindquist routed Ashton with a six run uprising in the second inning. Poore, the winning pitcher, helped his cause with a two-base knock in the big second. Three more runs in the third put the game on ice for the winners. Flessner and Poore had two hits apiece for Lindquist.

Greenfield doubled to give Ashton its four-run fourth frame.

Pinch-Hitters Find Roberts Tough Man

New York—Robin Roberts, possibly the Phillies' best bet to win 20 games this season, set some sort of a record against Brooklyn Dodger pinch hitters. He got eight outs against the first seven Dodger pinch swingers.

In the Philadelphia opener he beat the Brooks, 9-1. Pinch hitters Wayne Belardi and Cal Abrams struck out and Gene Hermanski hit into a double play. In Ebbets Field, Roberts faced four pinch hitters in a 9-2 victory. They were Abrams, Beldardi, Hermanski and Jim Russell, all batting left-handed. Robzerts had four strikeouts in the game.

You guessed it. They were against the four pinch hitters.

TWO-POINT LANDING—Primo Carnera is a familiar sight bracing himself on the canvas to bear the weight of flying Gene Stanlee. The former heavyweight champion and Mr. America wrestled 30 minutes to a draw. A character called Lord Leslie Carlton retired after 24 minutes and 23 seconds with Antonino Rocca in the main event of a show that attracted 14,246 spectators and grossed $42,311 at Madison Square Garden.

Rush Loses First Game as Bums Down Chicago Cubs, 6-1

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Everything happens in Brooklyn! It's corny but it's true.

Remember the day three men wound up on third base? The fly balls that bounced off Babe Herman's head? The sparrow that flew out of Casey Stengel's hat?

The 1950 Dodgers last night added the novelty of a three-man race from third base to home plate that wound up an "interference" double play by the Chicago Cubs. Sound complicated? Well, it is.

Jackie Robinson was on third base and Gil Hodges on second in the eighth inning. Eddie Miksis hit a ball to third base. That set it up.

The third baseman threw to the plate and Catcher Mickey Owen chased Robinson back to third.

When Robby arrived he found Hodges also standing on the bag Owen touched both men and the umpire ruled Hodges out.

* * *

Then Miksis headed for second base and Owen threw to Wayne Terwilliger. Although he had been ruled out, Hodges started for the plate in a three-man race with Robinson and Owen.

* * *

Down the stretch they came virtually shoulder to shoulder. Robinson first, Hodges second, and Owen third. But the finish was not official. An objection was lodged. The relay from Terwilliger was taken by First Baseman Phil Cavarretta, protecting home plate. He tagged Robinson sliding across the rubber. Plate umpire Art Gore ruled Robinson out because Hodges interfered.

The official scoring was a double play—Third Baseman Bob Ramazotti to Owen to Terwilliger to Cavarretta. Owen got the putout at third and Cavarretta the one at home.

Oh yes, the score. Brooklyn won, 6-1, with Rookie Pitcher Dan Bankhead going the route for the first time. It was the Negro righthander's fourth straight victory, breaking a five-game win streak by the Cubs' Bob Rush. Duke Snider, George Shuba and Roy Campanella smashed homers off Rush, who hadn't thrown a gopher ball in all his previous games. Andy Pafko ruined Bankhead's shutout with a homer.

Phils Blast Pitt

Those Philadelphia Phils stuck right on the Dodgers' heels by blasting six runs in the eight inning for a 6-3 edge over Pittsburgh. Dick Sisler's three-run homer off Murry Dickson started the big uprising.

Rookie Cloyd Boyer pitched fine relief ball for the St. Louis Cardinals after Lefty Max Lanier had to leave the game due to a pain in his shoulder. The Lanier-Boyer team shut out the New York Giants

Spahn Gets Win

Warren Spahn turned in his best effort of the season, a three-hitter for Boston against Cincinnati, 4-1. The Braves got to Ewell Blackwell for six hits and all four runs before he gave way to Frank Smith.

Rain washed out the "big game" in the American, the first of the New York Yankee-Detroit Tigers series, but the Boston Red Sox clung to an early lead to down the St. Louis Browns, 7-5, for Mel Parnell's fifth victory. Two triples by Al Zarilla and doubles by Walt Dropo, Billy Goodman and Ted Williams led the 10-hit attack.

Gene Bearden, the 1948 World Series hero but a flop ever since, bounced back with a fine relief job for Cleveland against Washington Replacing Early Wynn in the second, Bearden allowed only four hits in seven and one third innings for a 5-4 decision over Joe Haynes.

The Chicago White Sox came from behind to topple Philadelphia, 10-7, in the eighth.

Six Americans Complete Field In British Meet

St. Andres, Scotland, May 25—(AP)—Big Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., defeated Sam McCready of Ireland on the 19th hole today to lead a field of six Americans into the round of 16 in the British Amateur golf championship

The long-driving legislator, who yesterday eliminated former champion Willie Turnesa, sank a 12-foot putt for a birdie three on the first extra hole to subdue the laughing Irishman after a tense duel.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., Jim McHale of Philadelphia, Bill Goodloe of Valdosta, Ga., and Ed Gravely of Rocky Mount, N. C., joined Campbell in the sixth round, which also was to be played today.

Decide Future Of Rose Bowl in Big Ten Meeting

Evanston, Ill., May 25—(AP)—The future of the Rose Bowl football game may be decided by Big Ten faculty representatives and athletic directors at their spring meeting today

There is rising sentiment for abandoning the bowl contract with the Pacific Coast conference after its expiration next New Year's day The contract was originally adopted for five years.

Minnesota is expected to suggest that the pact be scrapped, but Gopher leaders may be unable to muster enough votes to end the series.

If the majority of Big Ten schools want a renewal, a committee will be named to confer with Pacific Coast conference officials on revisions. The two groups probably will meet during the NCAA track championships at Minneapolis June 16-17.

Six Champions Return to Help Teams in Fight

By JERRY LISKA

Evanston, Ill., May 25—(AP)—A six-team melee for team honors and possible shattering of three robust records seem promised in the 50th Big Ten outdoor track and field meet at Northwestern's Dyche Stadium tomorrow and Saturday

* * *

Defending Champion Minnesota is accorded only an outside chance of retaining its title against the bids of indoor champion Ohio State, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan.

* * *

The field of 250 athletes includes six returning champions, among them Wisconsin's Don Gehrmann, seeking his third straight mile crown, and Indiana's Charlie Peters, defending in both the 100 and 220 sprints.

Two of the expected new records appear destined to blossom in one of the greatest displays of distance talent in conference history, headed by Gehrmann in the mile and Michigan's Don McEwen in the two-mile.

A new record may develop in the pole-vault where indoor champion Don Laz of Illinois will soar at the 1957 mark of 14 feet, 2½ inches by Chicago's Bob Cassells. Laz cleared 14 feet, 1 inch on May 6 and set an indoor league mark of 14 feet, 3 7/8 inches.

Other Titalists

Besides Peters, favored to retain both sprint titles, and Gehrmann who will shoot for a double in the half-mile and mile, other returning title-holders are Minnesota's Fred Brass in the high hurdles; Northwestern's Jim Holland in the broad jump; Indiana's Jim Roberson in the shotput, and Ohio State's Bill Miller in the discus.

Brass, however, has to whip indoor high and low hurdle champion Russ Merkel of Iowa, Michigan's Don Hoover and Illinois' Bob Hinkle, all with better clockings this season.

Shot Putters

Roberson could be unseated in the shot-put by Chuck Fonville and Pete Dendrinos of Michigan and Byrl Thompson of Minnesota, while in the discus Miller will get a battle from Thompson and Indiana's Cliff Anderson and Roberson.

Along with Holland, Ohio's Bob Wade and Purdue's Jack Blair have broad-jumped better than 23 feet this season

Indiana appears to have the best team balance with Peters in the sprints; Bill Garrett in the 440; Frank Owens and Dave DeWitte in the distances; Bill Taylor in the hurdles, Dave Norton in the high jump and Roberson and Anderson in the weights.

Mile Relay Holds Key

But this meet probably will go unsettled down to the closing mile relay which is worth 10 points to the winner. Ohio State, Wisconsin and Illinois have the best chance to pick up points here.

Preliminaries in nine events are booked tomorrow afternoon and finals in all 14 championships begin Saturday at 1:30 p.m. (CST).

Labor's Part In Politics Is Decried by C. C.

Washington May 25 (AP)—The U S Chamber of Commerce said today the American labor movement is threatening the stability of the nation's political system

In a pamphlet on labor in politics issued today the chamber said

"The American public may well ask itself shall the labor bloc be allowed by default to dominate American politics?"

The booklet noted that politics is a major interest of organized labor and added

The movement has become so large that it is a constant threat to the stability which has characterized our two-party system There is always the danger that it will become a powerful third party movement or that it may actually capture and use for its own purposes one of the major political parties

The fact that both the CIO and AFL have taken an active and sometimes effective part in political campaigns the chamber said poses this question for the forces outside labor

Whether business can continue in this country unless it and its friends deal effectively with political issues all the way from the grass roots to the national level

Meantime Formosa's Gov K C Wu predicted "famine, Communist misrule and oppression would cause a mass revolt against the Reds on mainland China in the fall

He declared the revolt would pave the way for Nationalist Chinese counter attacks in November and a full scale mainland assault next year

He charged Mao Tse-Tung Chinese Red leader is ready to reduce the population of China from 450 000 000 to 150 000 000 He did not explain but asserted transport of food from Red China to Manchuria and Communist refusal to accept American famine relief prove this is true

Red leaders have said the ... combat famine among some 40,000,000 mainland Chinese without outside help

That New GM Contract Is a Good Deal for Both Sides

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington May 25 (AP) - This is an explanation of the new contract between General Motors and the CIO Auto Workers' union.

The contract signed on Tuesday goes into effect next Monday. It will last five years. It cannot be re-opened for any reason.

It guarantees the workers a raise each year for the next five years.

Suppose in that time living costs go up. The workers are protected on that. Suppose living costs go down. GM gets a break on that.

But if living costs see saw up and down may the workers wind up without any raise at all? No. The raise is guaranteed. They'll get it.

Here's how:

How It Works

The workers get a flat increase of 4 cents an hour each year for the next five years, starting Monday.

Over the five year period this will mean for them a total increase of 20 cents an hour.

Suppose living costs go down GM and the union agree to abide by the government's thermometer or index, showing living costs.

For approximately every index point that living costs drop, the workers will lose one cent but they cannot lose more than a total of 3 cents. No matter how far living costs drop in five years.

This is how that will work: Getting four cents an hour more each year for five years, the workers will have received a total increase of 20 cents at the end of that time if living costs remain unchanged.

But suppose in those five years living costs drop one point below what they are now. Then the workers will lose one cent and wind up at the end of five years with a 19-cent raise, instead of 20.

If, in that time, living costs drop three points, the workers will wind up with a total increase of 17 cents, instead of 20.

Can't Lose Much

But they can't lose more than those three cents over the five years no matter how far living costs drop.

Suppose, for instance, in those five years living costs fall 20 points. The workers can't lose more than 3 cents, so they'll still end up five years from now with no less than 17 cents an hour more.

Suppose living costs go up.

In addition to their flat raise of 4 cents an hour each year for five years, the workers will get one cent an hour more for each rise of one point in living costs.

Heckles Clay On Ilse Koch At New York

New York May 25—(AP)—Heckled and picketed, Gen. Lucius D. Clay cast aside a prepared speech at an anti-Communist "Hold Berlin" rally last night and issued a rallying call to the people of the German capital and a warning to the Russians.

To the people of Berlin, the former American military governor in Germany said:

"You have within yourselves the moral strength to stop any attempted uprising among the youths of Germany which would destroy freedom. Be patient—the time of freedom is rising."

A lone heckler disrupted the rally and caused brief disorder after police had routed 1,000 chanting pickets outside Town Hall.

A loud murmur arose from the audience as a young man began heckling Clay because he had cut the prison sentence of the notorious Ilse Koch of Buchenwald.

Many men and women jumped to their feet, some of them shouting.

The Heckler continued shouting above the noise until two detectives escorted him out of the auditorium. About 100 persons followed. Some of those who left the auditorium with him cried "Let him speak."

Just as Clay was about to begin his speech, the heckler questioned him on the issue of Mrs. Koch, wife of the commandant of the Nazi extermination camp at Buchenwald.

"How about Ilse Koch and human skin?" the heckler demanded of Clay, who had cut the woman's penalty to four years after a military court had imposed a life sentence for her part in Buchenwald atrocities.

Mrs. Koch was accused of making lampshades from the skin of prisoners.

Clay told the heckler:

"I am never unwilling to give anybody his viewpoint on any question, but I also believe that any fair-minded American is willing to listen."

The unidentified heckler, who told newsmen, "I'm just a plain GI," was not arrested. "This is a Nazi meeting," he charged.

Marine Fought Nazis At Age of Fourteen

Camp LeJeune, N. C., May 25—(AP)—When Marine Pfc. Lawrence R. Lamberti of New York City tells of fighting Nazis and Fascists at the ripe old age of 14, many of his Marine buddies are a little skeptical but his is no idle boast. Born and raised in Italy, Private Lamberti participated in many partisan sabotage activities including bridge blowing, sniping and small scale warfare, when the Germans occupied that country.

Even though he was a native Italian and didn't enter the United States until 1946, Lamberti is a fully naturalized citizen under United States law because his father came to this country in 1939 and became an American citizen before his son had reached his 18th birthday.

Israeli Government Moves to Jerusalem

Jerusalem, May 25—(AP)—By the end of 1950, all Israeli government departments and ministers probably will be functioning in Jerusalem. The removal from Tel Aviv is being made as rapidly as housing is available. This is in line with the government's policy to firmly entrench itself in Jerusalem as the Israeli capital despite the United Nations decision that the city is to be internationalized.

Penguins differ from other birds in that their wings are converted into paddles for the pursuit of fish under water.

Israel's Population Reaches 1,080,000

Tel Aviv, Israel May 25—(AP)—The Jewish population of Israel now is 1,080,000 the newspaper "Davar" reported. There are also 165,000 Arabs living in the little state, making a total population of 1,245,000.

THE WHOLE STORY ABOUT HALF HAMS

A&P's "Super Right" Half Hams Have No Center Slices Removed...You Get Full Value!

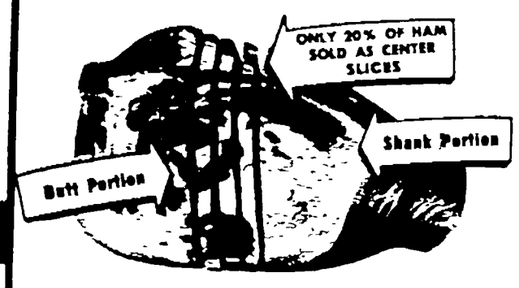

HERE'S HOW A&P SELLS HAMS WEIGHING LESS THAN 16 LBS.

We say a HALF HAM means a ham CUT IN TWO, with no center slices taken out. That's just what you get at A&P. And that's something to remember when you compare half-ham prices.

AND HERE'S HOW A&P SELLS HAMS WEIGHING 16 to 20 POUNDS

We cut 16 to 20 pound hams so that average families can take advantage of the extra value offered (See picture below.) A&P does not handle hams weighing over 20 pounds, because the meat is apt to be coarse and tough.

Put Your Finger on Any One of These Men; It's a Safe Bet He's Going To Be a General

STARS IN THEIR FUTURE: For these students at the Army War College at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., apex of one of the nation's top educational systems, a general's stars are practically certain.

Washington—Take any graduating class from the Army War College, close your eyes and point at random to any one man in it.

It's a safe bet he'll be a general some day. If given the chance, the man you point to could be an outstanding statesman in any other branch of public service. As he stands there, just about any big company would hire him as an executive.

The Army War College, temporarily at Ft. Leavenworth, Kans., is the apex of one of the most successful educational systems in the world. The Army's schools for officers are one of the big reasons America won World War II. They made the tiny, pre-war Army flexible enough for a handful of regular officers and enlisted men to transform millions of raw civilians into the greatest fighting force in history, in a miraculously short time.

They produced such soldier-statesmen as Generals Eisenhower, Bradley, Clay, Marshall, Collins, and others. They are the reason why General Eisenhower, for instance, who had never had previous combat experience, could step on the battlefield for the first time as a brilliant leader and strategist.

Every person who sees the system work at close range is astonished at its results. Gordon Gray, retired Secretary of the Army, calls it "the organization that has the most remarkable record of accomplishment in the whole field of professional education." He adds, "No other profession or group in the world provides a lifelong postgraduate education system as extensive as that set up in the Army."

The most significant part of the schooling starts after the officer has been graduated from West Point or commissioned from another source. Actually, West Point teaches its undergraduates no more military science than the ROTC program of any college. And only 29.1 per cent of the regular officers today are West Pointers.

After two to five years' duty with the troops, an officer goes to the Branch School, for 10 months of technical training. After returning to troop duty for a couple of years, the officer, a captain or major by that time, returns for post-graduate Branch School courses. This prepares him for more responsible assignments. Every Army officer goes at least this far.

After a few more years of field duty the top half of all the officers will go to the Command and General Staff College, permanently at Ft. Leavenworth. Their average rank will be major or lieutenant colonel but in the classroom they will be simulated generals. The course is a little less than one year.

• • •

Those who have the best field records and have made the best scholastic records then get sent to one of two schools, after more field duty. Some go to the Armed Forces Staff College at Norfolk, Va., a unified school where they are taught the complicated business of running joint overseas operations, being task force commanders, or theater commanders.

Or they may get the equivalent of a doctor's degree at the Army War College, where their knowledge is broadened to include an understanding of top-level industrial, labor, political and international problems. A very few officers go to both of these schools.

Thus, after about 20 years of service these graduates have had four years of excellent schooling in many fields, have proven themselves as outstanding officers in the field and possess superior intellectual abilities. That's why they are destined to be generals and why any firm would snap any one of them up as an executive.

Then, for the most carefully screened senior officers, they are still two schools ahead, both in Washington. The National War College teaches the strategic considerations of global warfare. And the Industrial College of the Armed Forces instructs in the industrial aspects of global warfare.

In addition to all of that book learning, each year approximately 700 Army officers are sent to civilian colleges and universities for graduate work in such things as nuclear physics, law, international relations and journalism.

Pulaski Official to Fight Disbarment; Denies Charges

Springfield, Ill., May 25—(AP)—State's Attorney Warner Wall of Pulaski county contends there is no basis for disbarment proceedings filed against him by the Illinois Bar Association's board of governors.

Wall asked the State Supreme Court yesterday to dismiss the disbarment case because, he said, there is "no charge, proof or finding of fraudulent intent or dishonest motive" on his part.

Took Donations

The board has accused Wall of taking "donations" from gambling operators and using the money for county expenses.

Its report, filed with the Supreme Court last week, recommended his disbarment as a practicing attorney on the grounds he had failed to enforce anti-gambling laws.

In a bill of exceptions, Wall said the board's recommendation is "arbitrary, too severe and not merited under the evidence."

He also contended that as State's Attorney he is immune from disbarment proceedings for his acts "in the absence of corrupt or malicious motives."

The board reported that Wall collected $30,090 between May 6, 1946 and March 8, 1949 and that most of the money represented "donations from gambling operators."

It said, however, there was no evidence that the state's attorney ever retained any money or failed to account for any money that he received.

Acted "For People"

Wall told a reporter last week he acted in the "best interest of my people at home."

He said the money was collected by fines against gamblers and that it was used for county purposes, including road machinery and making courthouse repairs.

The supreme court is not expected to have a decision on the disbarment recommendation before its November term.

Rangoon Small Pox Epidemic Kills 500

Rangoon, May 25—(AP)—An epidemic of small pox which hit Rangoon last November took a toll of 500 lives within five months, according to the health department of Rangoon. A department statement said the disease is still raging in epidemic form in the heart of the city.

It stated that teams of municipal vaccinators sent into stricken areas were hampered in their work by people who barred entry to their homes, fearing the vaccinators were bandits in disguise. Nearly 10,000 people had to be vaccinated forcibly.

The statement added that presently 300,000 of Rangoon's 750,000 population have been vaccinated.

Presbyterian Church Ends General Meeting

Cincinnati, May 25—(AP)—Representatives of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A. officially ended their 162nd general assembly here yesterday with a plea that the manufacture of atom and hydrogen bombs be halted.

Delegates made a few changes in a report by the committee on social education and action but still said, "let us with personal repentance work to stop the feverish fashioning of atomic and hydrogen bombs."

Stricken from the report was criticism of President Truman's stand on hydrogen bombs.

California Is Warming Up for a Bigger Role in U. S. Politics With Lively Primary Battle Scheduled June 6

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

California, warming up for a bigger role in national politics, is staging a lively, tangled primary campaign with a U. S. Senate seat and the governorship the main prizes. Voting day is June 6.

The state's entry into the 10,000,000 population class means that, starting in 1952, it will pack much greater weight than heretofore at national party conventions. Winners in California will have to be reckoned with in presidential slate-picking.

The toughest scrap this year involves a former actress and a publisher.

CONGRESSWOMAN DOUGLAS runs for Senate against a newcomer.

The lady is Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas, wife of Actor Melvyn Douglas and now an experienced congresswoman. She's running for the Senate on the Democratic slate against Manchester Boddy, middle-of-the-roader and publisher of the Los Angeles Daily News. He's new to politics.

In the governorship race the leading figures are hearty Gov. Earl Warren, 1948 GOP vice presidential nominee now seeking a third term at Sacramento, and James Roosevelt, ex-Marine, Democratic state chairman, eldest son of a famous father.

* * *

Neither has primary opposition within his own party. But California's odd cross-filing system, which allows a candidate to seek both party nominations, has Warren and Roosevelt battling each other as if the fall election were coming up.

Mrs. Douglas, an ardent Fair Dealer, has been canvassing California like a vetern trouper used to one-night stands. She began her drive last October and, except for short interludes in Washington, has been at it ever since.

Labor has lined up almost solidly for her, and she claims the backing of eight Democratic county organizations. Some key Democrats, however, are cool to her.

Lately she has charged that the Los Angeles press, including her opponent's paper, is imposing a "news blackout" of her campaign. She has been buying advertising space in the Daily News to "bring light to the blackout."

Boddy's paper announced that "in the interests of accuracy" it would measure the space devoted to the Douglas campaign and publish the findings.

REPRESENTATIVE NIXON, GOP, runs in both columns.

PUBLISHER BODDY runs as a middle-of-the-road Democrat.

JAMES ROOSEVELT runs to break into bigtime politics.

GOVERNOR WARREN runs on a "vote of confidence" campaign.

Some observers believe Boddy's entry into the race took some of the steam out of Mrs. Douglas' efforts. Until late winter she campaigned on the assumption her opponent would be Sen. Sheridan Downey, incumbent Democrat and arch foe of Michael Strauss, head of the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation. But Downey withdrew, willing his political organization to Boddy and killing reclamation as an issue.

Entering the fight with little more than two months to go, Boddy launched a determined drive to weld together all conservative Democrats, many of whom had been looking for a place to land.

Boddy's keynote has been: produce more wealth in the U. S. to meet the mounting cost of foreign and domestic programs. Without more wealth, he sees federal subsidies, farm price supports, pensions and other benefits as like "feeding a cow her own milk."

* * *

Boddy and Mrs. Douglas have more than each other to worry about. Another Democrat, State Senator Earl Desmond of Sacramento, may chip away some of their vote. And the main GOP candidate, Rep. Richard M. Nixon, has cross-filed in the Democratic column.

Nixon, a Navy veteran who gained notice for helping to dig out facts in the Alger Hiss case as a member of the House Un-American Activities Committee, is slugging hard against the Democrats. He's given a mathematical chance to win both nominations, since Boddy, Mrs. Douglas and Desmond could divide the orthodox Democrats badly.

Roosevelt, in his first try for office, can't ignore the same threat. Warren turned the trick in 1946, taking the Democratic nomination by some 60,000 votes. Roosevelt is admittedly a far stronger opponent than Warren's previous adversary, but the governor has a powerful hold on California voters.

* * *

A progressive Republican, Warren has fought successfully for some welfare measures and valuably for others. Having won both nominations last time, he gave his second term a strong "non-partisan" flavor. This may have helped him in a state with a majority of the voters registered as Democrats.

It did not endear him to old-line Republicans. Some wrote him off after his defeat on the Dewey ticket, but he snapped back strongly. Today the GOP leaders are with him again. They know he's a vote-getter—and they have nowhere else to turn.

To Warren this is a "vote of confidence" campaign. He's making his hardest push since 1942, continuing his "non-partisan" approach and assailing Roosevelt (though not by name) for promising too much.

The lanky Roosevelt, flashing the family grin, goes on plugging in his factory-gate, street-corner campaign to break into state—and national—politics. Some observers suggest he may have burned himself out too early and is possibly losing ground.

But Jimmy, remembering his background, is confident he's on his way:

"Thanks to my father and mother, I feel I've had the soundest possible political training."

Tokyo Morals Collapsing; Boys Are Kissing Girls!!

By NEA Service

Columbus, O — (NEA) — A Tokyo professor, now studying at Ohio State University here, is beginning to be afraid that there's more to this freedom business than meets the eye. It can be downright immoral.

Japanese boys and girls, Senjiro Hosokawa thinks, are copying behavior patterns from the American GI's on occupation duty. And, he adds politely, there are a few of the boys who are not what he calls perfect examples of propriety. Some of them don't even ask a girl's parents first, when they want a date.

"You people," says the 35 year-old professor at Tokyo Teachers' College, "should be more discreet in your introduction of your way of life. In your eagerness to democratize our country, freedom has been misinterpreted."

The serious-faced Hosokawa fears that pretty soon Japanese marriages will be arranged by the parties involved, and the nation's moral structure may suffer other similar signs of breaking down.

"I sometimes feel very sorry for American girls who have to search out their ideal husbands for themselves without the advice of their parents," is the way he expresses it.

"My own marriage was arranged by my teacher." (The Hosokawas have two children, but Hosokawa has no statistics about his teacher's offspring.) "Parents and teachers are more objective in making a marriage."

SENJIRO HOSOKAWA: He feels sorry for American girls.

Among other signs of a moral collapse cited by Hosokawa are co-educational schools, and boys and girls mingling in dance halls and at movies. All in all, it's a very serious thing to a very serious young Japanese.

Perhaps the worst thing the Americans brought to Japan—excluding the atom bomb, of course—was the kiss. It seems that each GI brought his private osculatory Marshall Plan with him to Japan. Before the war, kissing was a shocking thing in Japan.

Now, there's a different kind of shock in a Nipponese kiss

Balancing Budget At the Blood Bank

San Gabriel, Calif., May 25—(AP) — William Curry hasn't broken the bank yet—and he's seeing to it he never does. Curry's bank is the Regional Red Cross Blood bank, and transfusions from its supply of plasma have been the difference between life and death for him for six years. Curry, battling for recovery from nephritis has had more than 600 transfusions in that time. And he recently made up his mind to repay the bank for its lifegiving fluids.

"I'm going to start a one-man recruitment campaign for blood donors," he said. "I'm going to do everything possible to keep an even balance on the books." He figures that to make up for the plasma, whole blood and blood derivatives he has used he will have to recruit 625 persons who will give a pint of blood.

U. S. Fifth Column Called 'Ridiculous'

Bangkok, May 25 — (AP) — Siamese police carried out a probe following publication in Siamese language newspapers of reports that American "fifth columnists" had set up a network in Siam "under the supervision of General MacArthur."

Major General Phao Sriyanond, deputy director-general of the police department, announced after the investigation that special agents questioned Siamese editors and reporters attached to the newspapers concerned. They extracted confessions that the reports were based on hearsay and imagination.

"Stupid and ridiculous," police branded the stories.

The National Geographic Society says Russian sealers occupied the Farollon Islands, off the California coast, from 1812 to 1833.

Says 'Containment' Hopeless Unless Central Europe Free

By SIGRID ARNE

Lord Tedder, marshal of the British air force, has just dragged a political dead cat back into view.

He thinks the Western program to hold Communism won't mean much until the West makes it possible for the nations of Central Europe to regain their freedom.

That means principally Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria. Russian troops and Russian trained stooges have helped to set up Communist governments in all of them since World War II.

U. S. Waited

Only after the whole area had been grabbed by the Communists did the United States lead off in a "containment" policy. The program started with aid to Greece and Turkey in 1947, went through the Marshall Plan to help Western Europe and is now building the North Atlantic pact.

But all the time no top political leader in the West said much about the people of middle Europe who had failed to collect what the United Nations charter promised to the whole world. The right to determine their own form of government and to preserve national independence.

This left outside the pale many people who had contributed much to Europe's old brilliance.

Now Tedder says this cradle of old European culture must be made secure. In a Washington interview he said.

'Got to Win'

"We are in a struggle of ideologies. We've got to win it psychologically and morally. Europe is the birthplace of democracy. I think we would go astray if we drew a line of a military map and said the Rhine is the thing."

The UN's promise of independence for all people has become a sweet hash in Central Europe. The democratic leaders have either had to run for their lives, meet a firing squad or just disappear.

Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, who led the biggest political party in Poland, fled so secretly that even now his method of escape is unknown. In Czechoslovakia the active leader of the majority, Jan Masaryk, either jumped or was pushed from a window to his death. The life of Georg Dimitrov of Bulgaria was saved when the American ambassador, Maynard Barnes, flew him to Switzerland. Ferenc Nagy of Hungary fled to Switzerland.

Until the recent London conference Western leaders made it appear that the West's struggle with dictatorship would stop at the Rhine. This has now been extended to include Western Germany, but to middle European nations this must seem as though they are being conceded to Moscow.

Tedder objects to such a notion.

Illinois GOP Launches 1950 Fund Drive

Chicago, May 25—(AP)—Illinois Republicans will begin a fund raising drive Monday for the 1950 campaign to increase party representation in congress and the legislature.

The Republican citizens finance committee has set a $700,000 goal, Committee President Kent Clow of Chicago said.

Clow said 300 volunteer workers will begin canvassing Chicago and suburbs Monday. A similar drive downstate is scheduled next month.

The war chest will be used to finance campaigns which Clow said he thinks may accomplish these GOP gains:

The election of former Rep. Everett M. Dirksen to the senate seat which Sen. Lucas (D Ill) holds. Lucas is running for re-election.

The election of six more Republican congressmen. The Republicans now have 14 of Illinois' 26 seats.

The election of five more state senators, in addition to the 33 Republicans now in the 51 member senate.

An increase of 16 Republican state representatives which would give the party a majority in the house. There are 72 Republicans in the house membership of 153.

Polishes Off Fox In Place of Apple

Chicago May 25—(AP) —Patrolman Charles Schuenemann of the suburban Riverside police is no apple polisher. But the fox he polished off served the same purpose. He shot and killed the prowling animal near the chicken coop of his boss—Police Chief William Bartels.

Surgeons have found ice a successful local anesthetic for amputation cases.

Airlines' New Bid for Increased Travel Utilizes Fastest Equipment, Low Fares and Without Frills

New York—The airlines are beginning to use their fastest and best equipment in a bold new bid to build up air travel with coach-style service featuring low fares and no frills.

American Airlines is blazing the trail hoping to revolutionize the industry and create a great mass market for air transportation. United Air Lines plans to follow suit in May on a more limited scale.

The air coach idea isn't brand new. It's been getting a try-out for about a year and a half and has spread to most major airlines. But up to now such service has been chiefly restricted to overnight trips when travel is normally slack. And the lines have relied on 230-mile-an-hour DC-4's for the most part.

Now American has started flying the 300-mile-an-hour DC 6's on a one-stop coast to coast trip that clips nearly four hours off the fastest previous transcontinental coach service.

• • •

To fit out DC-6's for this run, American stripped them of luxury features and upped seating capacity from 52 to 70. The bigger load will go far toward offsetting the lower fares charged, American believes. By eliminating a second fuel stop, which a DC-4 must make, the line saves around $250 a day in costs.

On this flight you take off from LaGuardia Airport in New York at 10 25 in the morning. Three and a half hours later you're in Chicago, with ample time for lunch at the field. No meals are served aloft—they're part of the fancy trimmings that have been eliminated.

DAY COACH WITH WINGS: A choice of 34 flights on six lines.

At 1 40 p.m. CST you board the plane again, span the coastal mountains and land at Los Angeles airport at 7 10 p.m., just 11 hours and 45 minutes after take-off at New York.

If you returned the same way, you'd leave the coast at 9 45 a.m., reach Chicago at 6 10 p.m. and New York at 10 50 p.m. Eastbound, with usually favoring tail winds, the trips takes only 10 hours and five minutes.

The one-way fare all the way is $110, plus tax. Round trip costs exactly double, or $203 with tax. That's $92 cheaper than the regular non-coach service.

American thinks this kind of air travel can be self-supporting, can in fact earn as much revenue as the higher-fare standard service using the same planes. If it turns out to be right, American won't worry too much about what happens to its luxury trade.

Some of the other lines aren't so confident. They fear the industry's regular rate structure may be ruined by coach competition if the idea is applied too widely. They'd like to see it limited to older, slower equipment and to the unattractive hours of the day.

• • •

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, president of Eastern Air Lines, is in this camp. He feels, moreover, that low-fare coach service actually is discriminatory. People boarding planes at cities not on coach routes must pay higher fares.

Capital Airlines, however, is one of the big rooters for air coach. Though its shorter routes from the South and Midwest to Washington and New York make DC-6's uneconomical to use, Capital has been highly successful with DC-4's in that service. The pioneer with air coach, this line now has 10 flights daily at reduced fares. Yet it claims its first class travel hasn't suffered.

Right now you can take your pick from among 34 different air coach flights on six major lines. When United gets going with DC-6's between Los Angeles and San Francisco next month, this total will climb to 40.

To the Civil Aeronautics Board this entire venture still is tentative. The big question, of course, is: Can the lines tap a big new market without seriously impairing the revenues they get from their more expensive service? And most experts will be watching DC-6 flights like American's transcontinental trip for their answer.

The Movie Cowboy Business Is Big-Time Stuff; Here's Facts

By HAL BOYLE

New York (AP)—The cowboy industry is big business today.

And if you want to strike it rich you no longer have to discover oil—just sit down and dream up a cowboy character the kiddies will go for. He'll produce more lasting wealth than any oil well, because a good fictional cowboy never wears out or grows old.

For example, take "The Cisco Kid," who is one of the leading rivals of Hopalong Cassidy for the heart of American boyhood. Like Hopalong, the Cisco Kid began mildly enough and now is reaching epidemic proportions.

O. Henry Character

He first spurred into public view as a minor character in a short story in a book by O. Henry called "Hearts Of The West," published way back in 1907.

Today some $5,000,000 is invested in the Cisco Kid, now billed as "The Robin Hood Of The Golden West." He is heard over some 300 radio stations, he stars in six movies a year, and he is also making 52 television films. Thirty kinds of Cisco Kid merchandise, ranging from coloring books to dungarees and holsters, are being marketed.

A Gold Mine

"We expect to sell $10,000,000 worth of Cisco Kid merchandise this year," said a business spokesman for the mythical border Robin Hood. "And we feel that in 1951 it may reach $80,000,000. There doesn't seem to be any limit to the interest in western characters."

The Cisco Kid has been played by four different film actors. Warner Baxter won an academy award in the role in 1931. He was followed by Cesar Romero and Gilbert Roland.

The present portrayer of the durable Kid is Duncan Renaldo, who speaks 9 languages, has 3 children of his own and is active in the Parent-Teachers association.

The formula of the Cisco Kid stories is simplicity itself. He and his comic companion, Pancho, played by Leo Carrillo, get involved in some adventure in which they are mistaken as villains. They always clear up the mystery, after some hard-riding and bang-bang, and emerge as heroes.

Television has made the work more hazardous for the stars, as they no longer can use doubles.

"Now we have to do our own fights to get the closeups," Renaldo said. "And some of the stunts are pretty dangerous. Last year I had a saddle horn go through me. A cowpoke fired a blank accidentally in front of my horse, and it reared and fell on me."

California School Ready for 50 States

Ontario, Calif., May 25—(AP)—If the union is increased from 48 to 50 states by the addition of Hawaii and Alaska, this city will not be caught napping. Miss Laura Stroud's 44 sixth grade pupils have seen to that.

The youngsters have proudly presented Mayor Roy D. Boles with a handsome five by eight foot American flag to be flown on the day the union numbers 50 states.

The early Egyptians knew the use of wood veneer, basic unit of modern plywood.

Sugar, Fat Tests Give Odd Results

Madison, Wis., May 25—(AP)—Sugars and fats mix in odd ways when you eat them. Sometimes both are needed to make a healthy food mixture. But you have to mix just the right kind of sugar with the right kind of fat. Dr. E. B. Hart, at the University of Wisconsin, worked with milk. He removed the butterfat and substituted a vegetable fat. This modified milk failed to make animals grow as well as milk containing the butterfat.

Next the experimentors changed the sugar in the milk. They retained the vegetable fat and changed the sugar to sucrose or to dextrose. With either of these sugars the modified milk supported animal growth as well as the original unaltered milk. Sucrose is table sugar. Dextrose comes from bread, potatoes and proteins.

Business Boom Has a Minor Key; HCL Is Going Up, Too!!

By SAM DAWSON

New York, May 25—(AP)—The happy tune that most businessmen are whistling, pleasant as it is, has a little undertone in a minor key. An even greater drain on dad's pocketbook seems likely in the weeks ahead.

Prices on many of the cost of living items are being revised upwards, hand in hand with the business boom.

Tight supplies and increasing demand have led producers to hike prices. Some of the increased buying may be due to fear of further inflation, but much of it appears based on meeting present needs. And that leads many to believe that the price rise will continue.

Foods Going Up

Many foods are going up, in spite of the large surpluses left over from last year. Livestock and grain prices have been climbing. Wholesale prices tend higher. And cantankerous weather dims the prospects for seasonal supplies of fresh fruits and vegetables cutting the total cost of the market basket this summer.

Hog and pork prices are expected to reach a peak late in the summer. Cattle and beef prices may not start to drop before early fall. Lamb prices are expected by most observers to stay high, because of short supplies, during the rest of the year.

Weather a Factor

A bad spring, with late freezes, cut heavily into the fruit crop. Apples and citrus prices may not rise, but you may have to pay more this summer and fall for peaches, plums, cherries, prunes and grapes.

More homes are going up than ever before, but so is the cost of building them. Rents have been climbing slowly but steadily.

Sales of durable goods—like autos refrigerators, television sets—have been the sparkplug of the spring business spurt. But costs of the raw materials they use have been going up, right along with the increased sales and production.

Metals Climb

Copper, zinc, lead, aluminum, have been climbing steadily as demand grows and stocks dwindle. Steel scrap has gone up $10 a ton in recent months. Tires have just gone up again, and may go even higher. Gasoline has gone up in many places, as the summer season of heavy consumption starts.

However, a few things are acting as a brake on all this inflation.

Rising productivity is one. Labor costs tend high, but new machines are getting more products for each hour a man works.

Plant capacity is up, too.

But meantime, as long as the business cycle continues upwards the chances are that the cost of living will rise a little—or at least stay high.

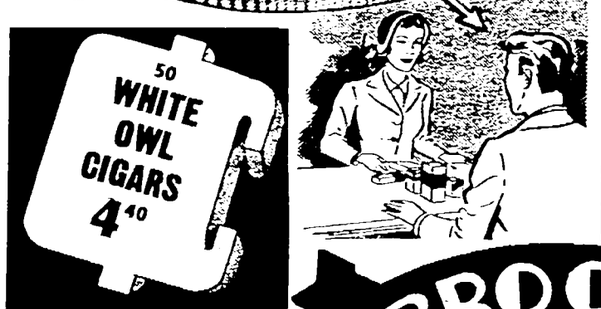

Flooded Red River Continues Slow Fall

Winnipeg, Man., May 25—(AP)—The flooded Red river continued its slow fall today amid indications that the serious flood menace to Winnipeg is nearly ended.

The river this morning was at 29 feet, more than a foot below the flood-crest peak of 30.3 feet reached last Friday.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

A nation is not worthy to be saved if, in the hour of its fate, it will not gather up all its jewels of manhood and life, and go down into the conflict, however bloody and doubtful, resolved on measureless ruin or complete success.

* * *

The Country Press Says:

KINGSTREE, S. C., COUNTY RECORD: "We hear about the proposed socialization of medicine. But we are already well on the road to socializing the power of industry in this country. Tax free power plants are built with taxes, to compete with tax-paying power companies. Part of the costs are often allocated for some high sounding purposes, the benefits of which usually fail to materialize."

WALDOBORO, MAINE, PRESS: "The boys up in Washington are jumping around like grasshoppers on a hot stove, regarding a policy on China, Russia, India, etc., and can't seem to agree on one for any of them. However, when they start getting dizzy, they can always take time out and get in agreement on one thing and that is to spend more money, and create more bureaus."

CLAYTON, ALABAMA, RECORD: "Until the American people realize how costly it is for the government to do things, and begin to refuse the largess, subsidy, etc., offered by the government, we cannot expect reduction in government expenses."

ARCADIA, LA., BIENVILLE DEMOCRAT: "Most of us in the older generation—but not so very old, at that—can remember when neighbors came from miles around to see the first bulb turned on and marvel at the light it gave, hanging there at the end of the cord from the center of the ceiling. Farm life has become lighter in more ways than one since the private utilities and the co-ops started extending their lines down the rural roads and across the fields to the farm home."

HARTLEY, IOWA, SENTINEL: "Beware of any scheme that advocates additional federal control, increased spending and increased taxes. We in the United States have taken our freedom for granted, but must do so no longer. There are many who under the guise of "Security for All" would take it away forever."

On Unifying a Nation

Late in April the four cities of Davenport, Iowa, and Rock Island, Moline and East Moline, Illinois, celebrated a unique event in American history. There 94 years before, the first locomotive rumbled across the first railroad bridge spanning the Mississippi—and bands of iron at last joined the east and west.

In the same month in which the bridge was opened it was rammed by a river steamboat. Both boat and bridge burned, and suit was brought to prevent the rebuilding of the structure on the grounds that it was an obstacle to navigation. A little-known Illinois lawyer represented the railroad. His name was Abraham Lincoln. Lincoln won his case, establishing the principle that bridges carrying railroad tracks may be thrown across navigable waters. In this, the man who was to go on to become one of the greatest of the presidents, made one of his first major contributions to the unity of this country.

The celebration in the four midwestern cities honored a high point in our history. It recalls the titanic struggles that characterized the building of the railroads less than a century ago. Men are still living who were children then—in their lifetimes they have seen the railroads do as much as any force to build the strength and security of this nation, and to serve its homes, farms and industries in peace and in war, in good times and bad.

The building of the railroads made it possible to settle and civilize this continent. Now, a brief century later, the existence of the great railroad industry is vital to the continent's very life as a united nation.

Obstacles Face Women Who Want a Job at Home

Quite a few women write me they would like to find some kind of job that they could do at home. To a housewife that sounds like the ideal way to combine marriage and a job—and perhaps it is the most satisfactory way.

Nevertheless it has its drawbacks as any woman who has ever tried it would, I'm sure, admit.

The woman who works at home may put in as many hours at her job as one who punches a time clock five days a week. But so far as the world, and especially her friends, are concerned, she doesn't have a job at all.

They never hesitate to call her at any hour for long telephone chats. If she worked in an office they wouldn't expect her to take an hour off for coffee in the morning, but they'll drop by her house and take up that much time.

The same kind of reasoning applies when it comes to outside activities. The woman who works at home doesn't get off as easy when she pleads that she hasn't time for an early morning or mid-afternoon meeting of some organization as does the woman everyone knows keeps office hours downtown.

SOCIAL LIFE FACES SAME DRAWBACKS

Socially, it's the same thing. Women who work in offices don't have to apologize for not having time for bridge parties that start at one and last until five. But the woman who works at home is supposed to be able to manage such time consuming invitations without batting an eye.

And the daily interruptions that slow down the housewife cut into the flow of work the woman who does her job at home is trying to turn out, too.

So to those women who think that combining marriage and a career would be duck soup if they could just hit on a job they could do at home I'd like to say this: That combination has its disadvantages, too.

Excuse me, please—both the telephone and door bell are ringing.

☆ IN HOLLYWOOD ☆

By ERSKINE JOHNSON NEA Staff Correspondent

Hollywood—If the plans work out, Bing Crosby and Dixie Lee will put a silver lining around those domestic clouds when Bing steps off the boat in New York June 19. The script calls for Dixie and the four boys to meet Bing at the gangplank.

* * *

It's all very hush-hush, but Hal Roach is bouncing back to movie production again with a picture tagged "Race Horse." Helene London will be the feminine star.

There's a big lawsuit being prepared against Paramount's "The Keystone Girl," film biography of Mabel Normand and Mack Sennett. Donna Reed's husband, Tony Owen, who first registered the idea of doing a picture about Mabel and who hasn't collected the moolah from Paramount for the money he spent developing the story, is the man huddling with lawyers.

* * *

Marie Windsor was quick to accept the role Dorothy Hart nixed in "Frenchie" and now it looks like Marie will wind up with a long term UI contract. She's a sensible doll. The role is small but good. As she says:

"You can go through big roles in a lot of pictures and it doesn't mean a thing."

Marie wears high-necked gowns in the film in contrast to Shelley Winters' peek-a-boo duds. Explains Marie: "I'm a lady."

ISN'T SO

Glenn Ford says he and Eleanor Powell have given up denying recurrent separation rumors. "They are not true, so we don't bother to deny them," he said. Both will go to Europe this summer where Glenn will do a movie. Meanwhile, he and Bill Holden, with director George Marshall, have formed an independent company to produce westerns for theaters and television.

The trio made "Texas" together and it made $7,000,000 for Paramount. "That," says Glenn, "is what gave us the idea."

* * *

Betty Grable is right proud that her new movie, "Wabash Avenue," is bringing out all the old Grable faithfuls who decided that maybe they'd better stay home after "The Beautiful Blonde from Bashful Bend."

Says Betty:

"All my fans wrote me and told me they didn't like me in that one. I've always taken my fan mail seriously. I go entirely by what my fans say."

* * *

Cesar Romero is London-bound for a role in "Happy Go Lucky" with Vera Ellen and David Niven. The Romero feet won't do a Fred Astaire with Vera, though.

"No more of that," says Romero. "I can't keep up with Vera. No singing, either. I open my mouth and sounds come out, but it's not singing."

NO RAH-RAH

Don Taylor broke with MGM right after making an honest woman of Elizabeth Taylor in "Father of the Bride." His reasons:

"I worked like Hades to get adult parts. For years I was typed as the All-American boy. Look at puss of mine. So in this picture I'm a fresh-out-of-college boy and the calls are beginning to come in for me to play more of them. I don't want to. I want to play nasty heels, with a little age on me."

* * *

Short Takes. Sam Goldwyn, who stated in Paris he would gladly hire Ingrid Bergman if he had the right story, actually has—"Dark Angel," which he once made with Ronald Coleman and Merle Oberon. It was rewritten in 1945 for Ingrid and Dana Andrews.

* * *

Hadda Brooks is being romanced by Columbia for a major singing role. Somebody will have to give in. Oldest People Today Don't Beat Ancients

New York, May 25—(AP)—The oldest people now living apparently do not reach greater ages than the ancients, says Dr. Edward S. Deevey, Jr., Yale zoologist, in the "Scientific American."

Deevey thinks long life runs in families, but he believes the amount of living a man can pack into a life is about uniform. Those who live longer live more slowly. The maximum life span seems to be about 115 or 120 years, he says.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

Discard Meldable Cards

By OSWALD JACOBY

"I watched a very good player the other night," relates a Cincinnati reader, "and noticed that she habitually discarded cards that matched her closed canastas. For example, she would have a canasta of kings and would pick up an extra king. Instead of melding it, she would discard it as quickly as she could.

"I didn't like to ask questions for fear of seeming ignorant. However, maybe you will be good enough to tell me why she did this and whether or not it was a good idea."

It will be a pleasure to oblige.

First, however, let me assure you that any good player loves to answer an occasional intelligent question. Just wait until the hand is over and pop your question. The person you ask will feel flattered that you came to her (or him) for advice.

Now for the question itself. Suppose you have a canasta of kings, including five kings and two wild cards. There are only three kings left in the whole deck. It isn't very likely that either opponent has two of those three kings in his hand, particularly if you have the third one yourself.

In other words, when you pick up an extra king, you can discard it with great confidence that it will not get picked up by the next player. If you melded the king (by adding it to your canasta), you would score ten points. It may cost you as much as 20 points to discard the king instead of melding it. Wouldn't you gladly pay 20 points each turn to be assured of a safe discard? Safety is actually worth a great deal more.

That's not all, however. Suppose you discard your king safely enough but that your next discard is picked up. Now your opponent has a king that he doesn't know what to do with. He can't meld it. If he keeps it in his hand, he has to make room for it by throwing a more useful card. If he discards it, your partner can pick it up—together wih any other cards there may be in the discard pile.

In short, when you discard a card that matches one of your closed canastas, you are putting into the discard pile a card that your opponent cannot use immediately and that will be a thorn in his flesh if he gets it later on.

* * *

Q—We were playing two-hand canasta. I made an insufficient meld. Can I just put the cards back in my hand without penalty, or is there a penalty as there is in four-hand canasta?

A—There is no penalty. You may put the cards back in your hand and continue the hand as though nothing had happened. In the two-hand game you haven't helped a partner by showing your cards. If anything, you have helped your opponent. Hence there is no need to penalize you.

* * *

Q—In a three-hand game, the winner collects from both opponents. Does the second-best player collect from the last man?

A—Both methods are used. In some games, only the winner collects. In other games the man in the middle wins from the bottom man as well. When playing with a new group, it's wise to agree beforehand which method you will use. If you forget to ask what they do, you must abide by the custom of the other players.

Epilepsy Seems Hereditary But Doesn't Stop Marriage

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

There are reasons for believing that epilepsy is a truly hereditary disease, that is, the tendency to develop epilepsy runs in families and is inherited by children from their parents. This does not mean, however, that parents of children with epilepsy always have epilepsy themselves nor that the children of epileptics will always have the disease. Because of the tendency to inheritance of epilepsy, however, the problem of marriage and child-bearing is important and difficult.

About three-quarters of those who develop epilepsy show signs before they reach the usual marriageable age so they will be in possession of the facts. A decision on marriage must be taken on an individual basis. It depends partly on how severe the convulsions are and how frequently they come.

Also an instrument called the electroencephalograph, which measures the brain waves, is extremely useful. The electroencephalograph records the electrical waves which are passing through the brain at all times. In epilepsy these waves are different from normal waves and give important information on the severity of the disease.

What are the chances that a person with epilepsy will have an epileptic child? Not long ago the family histories of nearly 2000 victims of epilepsy were studied in an attempt to answer this question. These 2000 patients had over 12,000 parents, brothers and sisters and children. Of the 12,000 only about one in 40 had a history of more than one seizure.

On the average, therefore, a person with epilepsy could expect one child out of 40 would have the disease; in other words, any given child of an epileptic parent has 39 chances out of 40 of being normal so far as epilepsy is concerned. However, even this chance of having epilepsy is about five times that which would be expected in the general population.

CHANCES ESTIMATED

With the help of the history of past seizures, the family history of epilepsy and the results of the electroencephalograph, the physician is able to give a rough estimate on the chances that any given child of a marriage would be subject to seizures. Thus the individual victim of epilepsy may have a better or worse than average chance of having epileptic children depending on his or her own case.

In the light of what we know now, therefore, marriage with or without children is not necessarily taboo merely because epileptic seizures have been present. Although epilepsy is an undesirable trait and carries somewhat increased risks for the children, the recommended point of view is that some epileptics should and some should not marry.

Dr. Jordan will answer questions from his readers in a special column once a week Watch for it.

Ray Milland Makes Movie of 'Alcoholics Anonymous' Work

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, May 25—(AP)—Ray Milland, who won an Academy Award for his rye-soaked performance in "The Lost Weekend," is again doing a picture about drinking.

But this time the greying Welshman is not prowling for bottles in chandeliers. He portrays a member of Alcoholics Anonymous, the organization which helps chronic drinkers recover their balance.

"I guess it was inevitable," said Milland, who drinks moderately in private life. He portrays an AA member who is sent to straighten out a young actress (played by Joan Fontaine) who is on a binge in a hotel room.

"Are You a Lush?"

I watched the pair go through their first scene in the picture, which is called "Mr. and Mrs. Anonymous." Miss Fontaine was blotto in the hotel room when Milland entered. He started to tell her about AA.

"Are you a lush?" she mumbled. "Do you drink?"

"I did," he answered with dignity. "Double-A showed me the way to pull myself out."

Ordinarily a woman field worker would be sent to aid a female drinker, but through a mix-up, Milland arrives. He is a married man—get the plot?

"I have learned about double-A from many of my friends," said George Stevens, producer director. "The results have been amazing. I have seen people who were hopeless drunks restored to a normal life."

His search for realism did not extend to attending a Double-A meeting. "I wanted to," he said, "but I was afraid people would see me there and start saying, 'oh-oh, Stevens is on the bottle again.'"

The touring company of "South Pacific" pulled into Los Angeles this week, welcomed by an advance sale of over $500,000. The demand is well warranted: This is the show of the decade.

Rodgers and Hammerstein, who seem to have the happy faculty of being able to top their previous efforts, will have trouble beating "South Pacific." It is as fresh and delectable as a new made pie.

"South Pacific" is a bitter lesson for Hollywood. The original novel was offered to all studios at $10,000. It was turned down. Now the property couldn't be bought for much under the price of Ft. Knox.

London, May 25—(AP)—What the well dressed Russian will wear this spring and next summer has been decided partly on his own say so. Anyway, that's the story the Moscow radio put out.

The broadcast, heard by he London Soviet monitor, said the Soviet model fashion house had designed more than 1,000 new models of men's, women's and children's clothes for the new season. It added:

"Leading artists, clothing workers and consumers themselves have taken part in choosing new model fashions, which are also discussed by workers in their houses of culture and clubs."

Westbrook Pegler

Mr. Truman with his $50,000 tax-free pay increase should read this column and then go hide

I have a letter from a typical copperhead, in the late Roosevelt's meaning of the term, who reveals a determination quite un-American, according to the same lexicon, not to pay her just share of President Truman's $50,000, tax-free increase in pay disguised as an expense account, nor her fair portion of the cost of his recent non-political visit to the far-flung haunts of the Faceless Man. I trust that the Treasury and Department of Justice will send her to prison that the majesty of law and justice shall be not mocked.

Westbrook Pegler

"My husband was employed by the New York Telephone company for about 30 years, giving all of himself in faithful service until ten days before his death on Dec. 13, 1948," this character states. "He was on vacation, in hospital for a final check-up so that he could breathe, when he died. When he started work he was informed of the plan for employes. Under this plan he served, forgoing opportunity to work elsewhere, where he might have received bonuses and so forth. He felt a sense of security in the event of his becoming disabled. He felt that in the case of his death his wife and child would be given a death benefit from the company.

Cancer Developed

"About three and one-half years before his death, he developed cancer. He was operated on and one lung was removed. His back remained open for almost two years. He had four subsequent operations before the stitches would hold together and the flesh heal. Meantime, he had been back to business because he loved his company and his work."

The reader will note the reactionary, capitalistic spirit of deceased and the surviving spouse.

"During this time he was shown the highest consideration by the company. However, our expenses were tremendous for doctors, medicines, dressings and oxygen which had to be in our home at all times. This consumed all our savings.

"Upon my husband's death, the company paid me a year's salary in monthly instalments, according to the death benefit plan. This was always considered in the form of insurance. I would not have been given it if he were not dead. It was not earned income. Being dead, my husband could not have earned it. I didn't earn it. I took this death benefit to cover the period of one year rather than a longer period, to pay the funeral expenses, buy a tombstone, to which my husband was entitled, and pay bills accumulated as a result of his long illness. I felt that I could then find a position and save for sickness and other emergencies the other small insurance which my husband carried.

Taxable Income

"In a ruling, dated May 10, 1949, the commissioner of Internal Revenue held that sickness-death benefit paid under this plan was taxable income. I believe they are also making it retroactive to 1947. On Jan. 23, 1950, I received a letter dated Dec. 15, 1949, forwarding the commissioner's ruling a year after my husband's death. The payments had ended and the money had been spent. It informed me that I would owe income tax on the death benefit.

"Since my husband's death my nerves have been in a serious condition, presumably an aftermath of the strain of his long illness and my deep love for him. I also need an operation. This has prevented my seeking a position although I have an 85-year-old mother, my entire care and support. Each month I must take from my husband's insurance money my rent and many other expenses. There will be also the expenses of my operation. I view the future with awe. The representative of the company who delivered the papers to me said the company would like to know my reaction.'"

This is the company, remember, which had the surly effrontery to refuse to buy insurance from Jimmy Roosevelt. To be sure, the company soon found itself "investigated" by the Department of Justice, at a cost of $4,200,000 to the stockholders and $1,500,000 to such taxpayers as the unsocial author of the text under contemplation here today. But it wasn't convicted of monopoly, so another prosecution was started which is still pending. The mills of the Party of Humanity grind slowly.

She Won't Pay

"I said: 'You can tell them I will never pay. I will take the whole matter to Mr. Pegler.'"

Let me hasten to wash my hands of this sordid cause. I do not know this Fascist-minded evangel of greed and civic anarchy. I do not endorse her reluctance to contribute to Mr. Truman's $50,000 tax-free raise and the cost of his barnstorming trip in the interests of the Democratic party. I don't want no trouble with no tax collectors.

"On March 18, I filed the income tax form. I will never pay the tax. I will go to jail before I will pay."

Certain narrow enemies of Mr. Truman have pointed out that he is even stingier than the late Roosevelt and Harold L. Ickes and will not spend $5, to say nothing of $50,000 a year extra and tax-free, on the expenses of his office. That is hearsay and bigotry. Nobody can prove that he didn't spend it all on official expenses. He doesn't have to prove that he did spend a nickel of it. On the other hand the same selfish agents of organized greed have inconsistently reproved him for extravagance. After all, frugality begins at home and if Mr. Truman saves the entire $50,000, plus the tax that he doesn't have to pay, he is setting the nation a fine example.

I shall try to learn the outcome of this rash defiance of our laws and report this offender's progress towards prison.

What's RIGHT?

SITUATION: You stop at a soda fountain with a friend who picks up both checks when you are leaving.

WRONG WAY: Try to "grab" your check so that you can pay it yourself.

RIGHT WAY: Thank the friend, telling her how much you enjoyed your drink.

Abundant Living

By E. STANLEY JONES

Gal. 5:17; Eph. 1:13; Luke 24:49; Acts 2:38-39

STRIKING DEEPER LEVELS

A young minister had a nervous rundown condition which the doctor diagnosed as follows: "You are trying to build a $2000 house with $1000 resources. You are strained and worried over the inadequate resources. Cost of diagnosis $50." That diagnoses could be given to the Christian church as a whole. We are trying to do things beyond our spiritual resources—hence strain. We must tap new resources.

In Texas surface oil was used for a long time, and the supply became meager. Finally someone dared to go down 5000 feet and struck new levels of oil, which brought forth gushers. Now almost all the oil is tapped at those low levels. When we as Christians go down to the deeper levels and tap resources, "laid up" for us in the Divine Providence, then we shall be artesian and overflowing. Then we shall be ready for anything. Melva Livermore, who knew so well the deeper levels of living, stood up in our Ashram and said with a shining face, "I just go around swishing love about." And then she added as she stretched out her arms, "Come on life, I'm ready." She was ready for anything that life could bring.

Melva Livermore's life had been transformed from a thermometer to a thermostat—the thermometer merely registers the temperature of its surroundings; the thermostate changes the temperature. Our Christianity is often only registering its surroundings, instead of remedying them. The early disciples did not go around registering the current pessimisms; they changed them. They didn't go around saying, "Look at the problems," but "Look at the Saviour." Their emphasis was not on sin abounding, but on grace much more abounding. And they spoke with transforming force. For the "Acts of the Apostles" were the Acts of the Holy Spirit working through the apostles. And what they began we can continue. "To be continued," is written at the end of the "Acts of the Apostles."

O Thou Living Spirit—Thou bringer of Life into death, of Victory into defeat, of Purity into impurity, of Plus into minus—come within me and capitalize all my nouns and substantives, make life sparkle that has been dull and dead and ineffective. Put Thyself into myself. In Jesus' name. Amen.

MEMORIAL Day

Half a decade has already passed since the modern American Minute Man overcame tyranny. Though the poppies once again hide the scars of war in Flanders Field, the lesson we learned there can never be forgotten. Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty.

Beulah Reigle Bride in Dixon

Bethel United Evangelical church was the scene of the evening wedding of Miss Beulah Yvonne Reigle, daughter of Mrs. G. D. Reigle, Route 1, and Richard R. Schumacher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Schumacher of Durand. Rev. Fred Cunningham performed the late April single ring ceremony.

Palms, candelabra and white snapdragons decorated the altar of the church. Mrs. Ted Gaul, organist, played several nuptial numbers preceding the ceremony and "Oh Promise Me" during the wedding. Mrs. David Reigle sang, "I Love You Truly" and "Because" preceding the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer" at the conclusion.

Fashioned by Bride

The floor length gown worn by the bride was fashioned by herself. It was of white taffeta with a sweetheart neckline. She wore a fingertip veil with a headband of pink roses and her bouquet was of pink and white carnations and stephonitis. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom.

Betty Lou Reigle was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a pink gown made with a fitted bodice and full skirt. She carried a colonial bouquet of carnations and asters.

Elton Reigle, brother of the bride, was best man and ushers were Richard Kibble and Jack Anderson.

A reception for the immediate family and friends was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Reigle.

To Wisconsin

When the newlyweds left on a short honeymoon to Wisconsin the bride wore a red suit with black accessories and the corsage from her bouquet.

A graduate of the Dixon high school with the class of '47 the bride has been employed in the office of the Dixon high school for the past two years. The groom who attended schools in Rockford and Franklin Grove has since been engaged in farming with his father.

WED AT DIXON CHURCH—Newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Schumacher were wed at the Bethel United Evangelical church. The bride is the former Beulah Yvonne Reigle, daughter of Mrs. G. D. Reigle, Route 1, and Richard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Schumacher of Durand.

Draft Law for 2 More Years Gets House OK

Washington, May 25—(AP)—The life expectancy of the nation's draft machinery became the senate's problem today following overwhelming house approval of a two-year standby selective service law.

The measure which the house passed late yesterday by a 216 to 11 vote would do little but keep the draft in readiness, so that the nation's youth would be registered and available if needed.

With an eye to the tense international situation, house members put up little resistance to the modified draft extension. At the same time, they placed the National Security Resources Board (NSRB) on notice that they would like to see a total war mobilization plan as a companion to peacetime military registration.

All-Out Plan

In the house debate, Rep. Vinson (D-Ga) voiced the hope that an M-day plan for labor, industry and manpower would be ready by January.

Vinson, chairman of the influential house armed services committee, directed his hint at W. Stuart Symington, newly named chairman of the SNRB and former secretary for air.

The Georgian was applauded when he suggested that a standby M-day bill be ready for the next congress.

The present draft law expires June 24. The bill passed yesterday would continue the registration and classification of 18-year-olds until 1952. But actual inductions would be prohibited until congress declared the existence of a national emergency.

The so-called "draftless draft law" was entitled the manpower registration act of 1950 in keeping with elimination of compulsory induction requirements. Technically, it is an extension of the 1948 Selective Service Act.

Refer to Russia

Repeated references to Russian military power studded debate on the bill. Extension of the draft law was urged to "buy time" in case of war.

Sober warnings of the danger of conflict came from Republicans as well as administration forces.

This would be the situation under the house bill:

1. Conscription remains on the shelf.

2. The President is prevented from mobilizing industry or taking over plants for defense purposes.

3. Voluntary enlistments under two years are banned, and 18-year-olds are barred altogether from volunteering.

The bill also permits the president, when congress finds an emergency exists, to call all reserves to 21 months active duty immediately. Reserves under 19 would be excused from this service at their own request.

To Push Bills For Merger of Road Districts

Chicago, May 25—(AP)—Bills to make it easier for road units in township form counties to merge will be pushed at the next session of the Illinois legislation.

There are 84 township form counties. Road district mergers have been made in Hardin and Union counties, two of the 17 with the commission form of government. But it is more difficult to effect mergers in the other 84.

Backers of road mergers aim for greater efficiency and economy in rural road and bridge building and maintenance. The Illinois Agricultural association, a large farmer group, is a leading advocate of mergers.

An IAA bill to permit merger of all township road units with the county's road unit, making them all a single tax-raising unit of government, failed to pass at the 1949 session of the legislature. It would have required a majority of all votes in a county-wide referendum.

A 1947 law permits two or more townships to merge. But that requires approval by majority vote in each of the two or more townships. That is hard to get—because a tax-wealthy township won't vote to merge with a tax-poor township.

Bills expected to be offered at the 1951 legislature session probably will provide for:

1. Merger of county and all township road units within the county. (The same as the 1949 bill which died in committee.)

2. Merger of all townships within a county into one county-wide township road unit.

3. Merger of several townships within a certain geographical area, such as a 100 or 200 square mile area.

FTC Attorneys Ask Hearing on Steel Prices

Washington Mar 25 (AP)—Two Federal Trade commission attorneys yesterday asked the FTC to reopen hearings on price fixing charges against Pittsburgh the entire steel industry They said there is new evidence the FTC should hear

Their motion was made in apparent anticipation that the commission will turn down the industry's proposal for a consent settlement of the charges

It was filed by Richard P Whiteley, FTC director of litigation and Everette MacIntyre chief of the division of anti monopoly trials Both are on record as opposing the industry's suggested settlement

They told the commission they wish to offer new proof on the following points

1 Showing more clearly the nature extent and effects of the basing-point system which FTC has attacked.

2 Showing an alleged agreement to prevent increases in steel producing facilities

3 Alleged collection action by the industry to prevent reductions in railroad freight rates

4 Additional showing of price data and other sales practices of certain of the companies

The FTC complaint, filed in 1948, charges the American Iron and Steel Institute and about 100 steel firms with conspiracy to maintain uniform prices and with using the basing point system as the method of doing so

Under the basing point system, freight charges are figured from a 'base point' although the actual shipment may be made from some other place For instance, the freight charge on steel sold in Georgia might be figured from Birmingham even though the steel was shipped from Pittsburh

After long hearings the industry last December offered a proposed settlement of the case FTC's lawyers have divided on the issue on whether to accept.

The proposed settlement would bar the industry from selling without having a price listed f o b at the mill from refusing to sell at that price from cooperating in the preparation and distribution of rate books for the pricing of steel products and from agreeing among themselves on a base price at which steel would be sold.

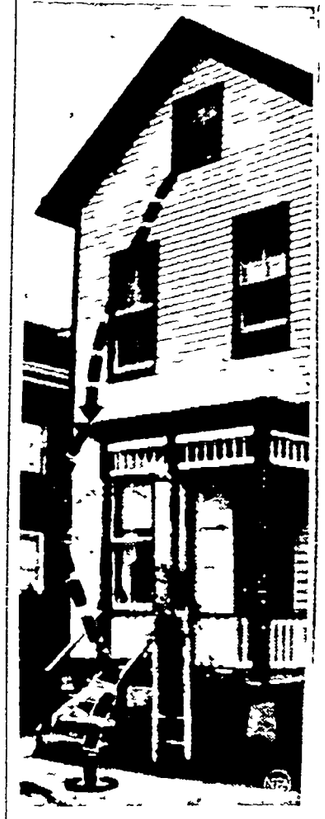

If FTC should reject this offer the companies have said they will reinstate motions to dismiss the charges
